LNG May Be Go-To Source for Replenishing Dwindling Energy Supplies

Hurricanes Katrina and Rita have exposed the weaknesses of the U.S. gas supply chain and demonstrated that new sources of energy are needed to meet growing consumer demands - and LNG may lead the pack. An article in today’s Natural Gas Week has the details. [Subscription required]

October 16, 2005

Media Contacts
To arrange an interview with an Eversheds Sutherland attorney or to learn more about a particular issue, please contact:

Erin Corbin Meszaros
Chief Business Development and Client Service Officer
ErinMeszaros@eversheds-sutherland.com
+1.404.407.5030